NEW NOVELS OF UNUSUAL INTEREST AND VARIETY

A New Volume of the Collected Works of LEONARD MERRICK

When Love Flies Out o' the Window

When you look for a new novel what do you ask for first—incident, the life of action? or character, the life of mind and heart? Leonard Merrick is one of the very few who can tell a thrilling story, and at the same time give you the real stuff of life. Which is probably the secret of the steadily increasing appreciation of his fiction so noticeable during the past year. Think of how he holds your sympathy through his uncompromising The Worldlings, of the smiling irony of Conrad in Quest of His Youth, the light-hearted, happy-go-lucky-ness of While Paris Laughed, the intensity and sensitiveness of them all—The Actor-Manager, which Howells so greatly admired, Cynthia, The Position of Peggy Harper, The Man Who Understood Women and other Stories, and you will rejoice that at last a true artist has come into his own.

Each volume, $1.90 net

The Book of Susan
By LEE WILSON DODD

A simply amazing first novel. Singularly direct and free from unessentials; full of subtle humor and vivid, telling phrases, vivid pictures of America today—it is good, exceedingly good. $2.00

The Young Physician
By Dr. F. BRETT YOUNG

For the fineness of perception, richness of imagination, and power of dramatic narration, in this novel, in "The Crescent Moon" and "Marching on Tanga," Dr. Brett Young ranks with the very first of fiction writers today, not excepting even Conrad.

Mary-Girl
By HOPE MERRICK (Mrs. Leonard Merrick)

A posthumous novel which may attract interest first because of her husband's fame but will hold it because of its own charm and insight and the character of the fanatic Quaker who so nearly wrecked his home to build his church. $2.50

A Maker of Saints
By HAMILTON DRUMMOND

An age in which the ability to take and hold gave full title to any lordship in Italy, is the background of this colorful story of unscrupulous intrigue and reckless violence, and true love. $2.50

Tamarisk Town
By SHEILA KAYE-SMITH

An increasing number of critics, Hugh Walpole among them, are inclining to rate this author as the ranking woman novelist of the day. It will repay reading. $2.50

Wunpost
By DANE COOLIDGE, Author of "The Fighting Fool," etc.

Mr. Coolidge's Westerners ring true. His stories fairly drip with local color and a humor which is characteristic and his plots are exceedingly ingenious. This is a lively yarn. $2.00

Mountain
By CLEMENT WOOD

The old South all novel readers know, but here is the new, the industrial South; its scenes show the development of a town whose every interest centres in the "Mountain" of iron ore towering above it. Quite out of the ordinary, especially in its picture of labor conditions. $2.50

The Sword of the Spirit
By ZEPHINE HUMPHREY

A well-meaning, practical husband, a brilliant temperamental woman attracted by the fascination of emotional mysticism in religion, and the varied factors of the life of a church are woven by the author of "The Homestead" and "Grail Fire" into a novel of distinction. $2.50

The Wider Way
By DIANA PATRICK

Introduces a new author who by the beauty of her descriptions, the fullness and vigor of her character-drawing has put herself at once in the front rank of contemporary writers of romance. $2.00

Our Peter
By GEORGE WODEN, Author of "Little Houses"

Full of the simple humanity, homely humor, and mellowed judgment which won for his earlier book instant recognition as a most unusual piece of work. $2.50
